A map from the National Hurricane Center shows Tropical Storm Chantal could form near four states this weekend.

Four states are at risk of seeing impacts from Tropical Storm Chantal should it form over the holiday weekend.

AccuWeather Lead Hurricane Expert Alex DaSilva told Newsweek that if the storm appears this weekend, it will be well ahead of schedule for the season, as the average third storm of a hurricane season typically forms around August 3.

🚨 Too Early, Too Convenient?

Potential Tropical Storm Chantal forming just in time for the July 4 weekend — hitting Florida, Georgia, and the Carolinas.

☀️ Sea temps are already in the danger zone (84–88°F)

📅 Holiday ops window = ideal cover

🍷 Storm shows up early — right on time for the next cleanup cycle

We've seen this pattern before.

The timeline doesn't lie.

~T edit: Dastig. The Caribbean and Sargasso were totally and completely quiet yesterday afternoon.....and now, all of the sudden, we have a named storm that just just happens to be ready to strike Florida and the Carolinas? What a gargantuan coincidence!

Notes to Readers:

The phase “The Storm” can mean several things:

1. multiple arrests
2. literal storm to act as cover for ongoing covert operation

The violent storms that have been hitting parts of the United States and other regions throughout the world have been largely accentuated or enhanced by weather equipment (radar, HAARP, etc.). This is not the black hats doing it, but the White Hats. And yes, there will be potential loss of life. Remember, this is a war. The losses are being kept down. Also remember the Cabal were intent in removing 90% of humanity and enslaving the remainder in their underground cities.

After the war is finished, the rebuilding effort will replace what was lost and couples will be encouraged to have more children to replenish the population. Some of the people lost in this war, including the children, will return to us in new higher frequency bodies.

During times like ours, you have to take the long view in order to survive with an intact mind.

Depending on whether or not we come under a tropical storm warning will determine whether any posts go out this weekend.

Blessings to you all, and Happy Birthday, America!
